THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION.

VOL. XXII.

ATLANTA, GA., FRIDAY MORNING, JULY 18, 1890.

IN ANSWER TO THE QUESTIONS SENT.

The Evils of Legislation for the Classes-His Views on the Subtreasury Bill—A Plan for Relief.

WASHINGTON, July 17 .- [Special.]-Judge Crisp has written a letter to the alliance of his district. It is in reply to the alliance stions which were sent him to be answered. By those who have read the letter it is proed the ablest yet written on the subject, one of which all thinking farmers approve. After mentioning the reception of the questions, the letter is as follows:

THE JUDGE'S LETTER.

For the seven years last past I have had the honor of representing in congress, as a democrat, the people of the third district of Georgia. Durthe people of the third district of decought, or ing my services here I have had frequent occasions to investigate, to discuss and to vote upon public measures, and representing, as I do, a dispublic measures, and representing, as I do, a district whose most important industry is agriculture, quite naturally I have devoted much attention and thought to the existing and proposed laws which directly relate to or affect those engaged therein. One at all acquainted with the legislation of the last twenty-five years must be impressed with the fact that very much of it has been in favor of classes at the expense of the masses of the people. Class legislation is wrong—that 1s, any law which grants to one person or class of persons the rights, advantages and privileges which may not be enjoyed by every other person or class of persons is unjust, and violates the fundamental principle of democratic government—"equality." When you contribute your money in the way of taxes to support the government, you do not do so in order that special favors or privileges shall be granted to anybody, but you do so in order that the government, honestly and economi-cally administered, may be enabled to discharge special privileges to none."

THE FARMERS INVESTIGATING.

The departure from these well understood and just principles has resulted in giving us a rich government, but making us a poor people. A few have built up immense fortunes, but the masses are poor. The rich grow richer, the poor grow poorer. The burdens of those in debt are made heavier and the value of fixed incomes is increased. It is not surprising then that the farmers who have heen so long oppressed by unjust exactions are beginning to investigate for themselves the condition of the laws, and to ask why there should not be some effort to lighten the load under which they stagger. The alliance, as I understand it, was de signed for the purpose of aiding and enabling the farmers of the county, by investigation, to under-stand, and by organization to overthrow and repeal, those laws which deny "equal rights to all," and which grant "special privileges to any." In that undertaking all lovers of justice and fair play must certainly bid you God speed, and I shall deem it not only a duty, but a pleasure, both in office and out of it, to contribute whatever of in-dustry and ability I possess to aid and cheer you in the struggle.

FAVORS RAILROAD REGULATION. I am heartily in favor of the regulation of rail-roads, so that they shall remain competitive, etc. I had the honor of having charge, on the floor of the house, of the bill which was passed in the forty-ninth congress, establishing a national railroad commission, and inaugurating a system of regulation of interstate commerce. In my speech at that time—which, I believe, was circulated in the district—I maintained the right and urged that it was the duty of congress, so far as it could, to protect the people from the unjust exactions, extortions and nations on the part of the common carriers of the country. I favor and have spoken and voted for a reduction of tariff taxes and such a change of the laws as would reduce the burdens now resting on the agricultural and laboring classes of the country. Our present tariff law imposes an average duty or tare of forty-seven per cent on imported dutiable articles, and by thus putting a burden on foreign manufactured goods, enables our home manufacturers to charge home consumers nearly or quite that much in advance of what they ought to pay for the home made articles they buy.

LUSTRATION OF PROTECTION.

Our people pay $220,000,000 tax or duty on foreign goods, which goes into the treasury, and they pay at least $800,000,000 enhanced price on home made goods, which goes into the pockets of the American manufacturers. Let me illustrate this: Suppose there was no tariff law and a hat could be brought form Liverpool and sold here for $1. The American manufacturer of hats would have to sell a like hat at the same price or go out of the business. A tariff law which imposes a duty or tax of forty-seven per cent. on imported hats, would force the American purchaser of the same foreign hat to pay $1.47 for it and would enable the American manufacturer to charge $1.47 for the same American hat, This makes clear the tax that is put upon the buyers of hats, and it also makes clear at whose expense and how the American manufacturer is protected. The tariff law thus increases the price of nearly everything the farmers have to buy, and while the increase on any one article may not be very great in the aggregate it amounts to more than a thousand million dollars. This vast sum is unjustly taken from the farmers and other con-sumers in the United States and given to a privieged class, the manufacturers. If our laws accorded "equal rights to all and special privileges to none," a large part of these millions, instead of going into the treasury to be extravagantly expended, or into the pockets of the protective manufacturers to add to the enormous fortunes, now possessed by many of that class, would remain in the peckets of the people where they rightly belonged.

OPPOSED TO THE BANKING SYSTEM. OPPOSED TO THE BANKING SYSTEM.

I favor the passage of such laws as will prevent speculation and combines, that seek to interfere with the prices of prime necessities and productions. I am opposed to our national banking laws, for the reason that they grant special privileges to the banks organized thereunder and discriminate against the farmers. I do not believe that any private corporation should be given the right to regulate to any extent, the amount right to regulate, to any extent, the amount of legal tender money that should be in circula-tion. I do not believe that it is just or right that private corporations should be permitted to con-tract or expand, at will, the currency of the country. I favor, and have in the forty-ninth congress and this session spoken and voted in favor of the free coinage of silver. If avor, too, the issue of such an additional amount of treasury notes as will give us money sufficient to answer the demands

I believe that the agricultural laboring classes are now suffering more from a contraction of the currency than from any other cause. We have not enough money in the country. The conse-quence is that the purchasing power of money is unduly enhanced. The prices of what the farmer has to sell are too low and the burden of his debts has to sell are too low and the burden of his debts is too great. Let me illustrate this: Suppose a bank held your note for $120. If there was enough money in the country for the wants of trade, cotton would bring say 12 cents a pound, and two bales of cotton would pay the debt. If the currency was greatly contracted, as it has been and now is, you could only get say 8 cents a pound for your cotton, and it would take three bales for your cotton, and it would take three bales to pay the same debt. The amount of the debt in dollars has not changed at all, and yet legislacontrasting the currency has increased your den to the extent of one bale of cotton, and at me time increased the value of the note held by the bank the same amount. The contraction of the currency has inflicted upon the masses of the people untold injury, and a proper increase of the circulating medium would afford us more immediate relief than almost any other law that could be passed.

THE SUB-TREASURY BILL.

This brings me to the last question propounded—that relating to the subtreasury bill. So far as that measure seeks to afford relief and assistance to those en-

JUDGE CRISP'S LETTER | gaged in the productions of the articles mentioned therein, it has my hearty sympathy. But it does not occur that the object sought would be accomplished by its passage, nor does it appear that the bill conforms to that principle which you and I, and all other good democrats, so ardently advocate—"civil rights to all and special privileges to none."

"clvil rights to all and special privileges to none."

The bill would require the expenditure of militions of money, for the erection of warehouses. This money must be raifed by taxation, and all of our people would be required to pay their proportionate part thereof. Thousands of United States officers would have to be appointed to manage, control and superintend such warehouses, and these officers would have to be appointed by the president of the United States, and the constitution of the United States, which is the supreme law of the land, denies to congress the power of passing any land, denies to congress the power of passing any United States, which is the supreme law of the land, denies to congress the power of passing any law which would give to the people of any state or community the right of themselves ele. Ling such managers. The president, the heads of departments and nearly all the judges of the United States courts belong to the republican party, so that we might, if the law was passed, confidently expect such managers to be combileans; and, jugding by the appointments made in the south for the past eighteen months, we might also expect them to be such republicans as are not entitled to the confidence and esteem of the people, and whose chief desire and purpose as are not entitled to the confidence and esteem of the people, and whose chief desire and purpose would be to stirup strife between the races, thus disturbing that peace and harmony which is so essential to our prosperity. I fear, too, that other grievances would result from the passage of the bill.

Those farmers whose necessities did not demand grievances would result from the passage of the bill.

Those farmers whose necessities did not demand-an advance of money, of course would not incur the expense of storage, insurance and interest incident to a deposit of their cotton in the warehouses when they could avoid this and at the same time get the ndvance in price by simply keeping their cotton under shelter at home. This class would necessarily have to bear the increased taxation necessary to raise the money to execute the law and would receive no benefit therefrom. The merchant, the doctor, the mechanic, the day laborer, the wool raiser, the sawmill owner, the turpeatine producers, and all others of every occupation who do not have for deposit the articles mentioned in the bill, would be required to pay their proportionate part of the taxes necessary to sustain the system, and yet could obtain no privileges thereunder. Shall we, who have so long, so earnestly and so justly insisted upon the repeal of all laws which tax some for the exclusive benefit of others, now abandon that principle? Unfortunately, many of our best farmers and best men are in debt, and that, too, without fault on their part. If it could be made clearly to appear that the proposed law would benefit them or assist them in the heroic struggle they are now making for relief from their embarrassments, that would be very much in its favor; but a careful examination of the provisions of the bill and much thought devoted to its probable effect have satisfied me that no substantial good to any class could come from it. I fear it might unsettle values; I fear it would result in great loss to those whose necessities prompted them to deposit their crops, and I fear it would make certain and easy the formation of combinations and trusts to control, at the will of the speculator, the price of the prime necessities of life.

Sympathizing fully and unreservedy

tain and easy the formation of combinations and trusts to control, at the will of the speculator, the price of the prime necessities of life.

Sympathizing fully and unreservedly with the object and purpose of your organization, I think I can suggest a better plan than that proposed in the subtreasury bill—a plan more likely to relieve the people; a plan not open to objection, and one which we are more likely to be able to carry out than any other which promises relief. The farmers need relief; they need speedy relief, and I submit that it is the part of wisdom in choosing a measure or measures to afford it, and to press such as we can reasonably hope to pass, and such as experience has demonstrated will accomplish our purpose, rather than to insist upon one that is novel; which involves the expenditure of vast sums of money; which many of our best and most worthy farmers oppose; which many persons believe would prove a curse rather than a biessing, and which, I venture to say, it would be almost, if not quite impossible to pass. Recognizing fully the pressing necessity for relief, the remedy I would suggest is: Increase largely the currency of the country, so that the burdens of those in debt will be lightened; provide for the free coinage of silver; reduce greatly the tariff, so that the millions that are now annually unjustly exacted from the people floady remain with them; repeal all laws of every kind of those in debt will be lightened; provide for the free coinage of silver; reduce greatly the tariff, so that the millions that are now annually unjustly exacted from the people funary remain with them; repeal all laws of every kind and character which grant to any person or class of persons special privileges and advantages over others, and insist upon an economical administration of the affairs of the government. The farmers all over the country are investigating the cause of the languishing condition of agriculture. They will find it in the special and class legislation of the republican party to which I have referred. When the cause is clearly understood, it seems to me the renedly should appear to them, and simple they will find it, and organization and co-operation will enable them to find it most quickly in the reneal of special and class legislation; in the increase of currency; in an economical administrations of the affairs of the government, and in the enforcement of the principle so well expressed in the motto of your order: "Equal Rights to All and Special Privileges to None."

I have written at some length, because I could not, in fewer words, define my position, and I have written frankly and candidly because I fully realize and recognize your rights as friends and as democrats, to know my views on any public question. I have always believed that between a representative and the people whom he represents there should be perfect candor and frankness. I have always acted upon that idea, and no consideration personal to myself will ever prompt me to depart therefrom. Representing a district whose chief industry is agriculture, numbering among my nearest and dearest friends many engaged therein, and bound to the farmers of the district by the strongest ties of gratitude for their past kindness, confidence and support, it would be strange indeed if I were not only willing, but anxious, to urge and advocate any just measure that promised to afford them, in the slightest degree, relief from the unequal

ANOTHER FIGHT AHEAD. This congress seems to be a good one for fights between congressmen and newspaper correspondents. During the first part of the session Mr. Taulbee, of Kentucky, attacked Mr. Kincaid, a correspondent, who shot and killed the former. Today there was a row between Congressman Crain, of Texas, and Mr. O'Brien Moore, the correspondent of the St. Louis Re-

It seems that Mr. Crain was absent without a pair when the vote was taken for the Lehlbach amendment to the force bill. Mr. Moore also censured Mr. Crain in the Republic for being absent on other occasions. Besides this. it is said that the two have been enemies for years. They knew each other in Texas some pears ago and there had a difficulty. Today Mr. Crain met Mr. Moore in a corridor of the capitol, and it is said with his hand on a pistol expressed himself in very strong language to the correspondent. Mr. Moere, being unarmed, made no reply, but said he would see him later. About one hour later Mr. Crain appeared in the press gallery, and with his six-shooter in his hand searched the lobby of the gallery for Moore. The display of a pistol in the hands of a man who evidently meant to use it, created a very large sensation among the newspaper men. However, as Mr. Moore was not there, no blood was shed. Mr. Moore is not in the city tonight, but it is feared when the two men meet there will be bloodshed. Both men are brave, and while every effort will be made to settle the matter amicably, a serious result is feared. The affair was very unfortunate and every one hopes it will be amicably settled. The elections committee of the house today allowed the claims in the contested election cases. Each of the sitting members, whose seats were contested, and each of the contest ants get $2,000 to defray the expenses of the

he says that Roswell P. Flower will be nominated by acclamation as the democratic candidate for governor of New York next year, and that Mr.
Cleveland will again be a candidate for the presidential nomination.

IT IS A DEADLOCK.

THE TENNESSEE CONVENTION IN A OUAGMIRE.

THE LEADING CANDIDATE'S HOPES

Are Blasted by the Presence of a Detern Opposition Majority, Which Agrees

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 17.-[Special.]-It was evident that there was a deadlock in the democratic state convention this morning, when ballot after ballot was taken without material change.
Although a number of delegates have gone home, the hall was crowded to suffocation. A deal had been arranged by which Buchanan, Patterson and Taylor were to be supported in turn, but this was broken up by a secret meeting of the Buchapan leaders, at which it was decided to hold solid all the counties in which Buehanan had a majority, and attempt to break the delegations controlled by the other candidates. There were five ballots taken at the morning session, the fourteenth ballot of the convention, and last before adjourning for dinner, resulting: Buchanan, 749; Patterson, 400; Baxter, 306; Taylor, 147.

At the afternoon session, Madison county, which was instructed for Taylor, finally broke, and gave her sixteen votes to Buchanan. This delegation had been engaged in an unseemly wrangle all day. The Madison county convention had appointed every democrat in the county a delegation and the state of the state gate, and over two hundred were present to cast its thirty-two votes. During the next two ballots, Hardeman, Sullivan, Dyer and DeKalb counties broke instructions for Buchanan, and divided their votes. The sixteenth ballot resulted, Buchanan 634, Patterson 386, Baxter 319, Taylor 147.

THE TEST COMES.

Immediately on the declaration of the result, an Obion county delegate offered the following resolution:

Resolved. That it is the sense of the majority of the delegates of this committee, that it is im-possible to ever nominate a candidate if the delegates abide strictly by the instructions given by the county committee, and it is the sense of this

At 10:10 o'clock the convention adjourned out of respect to the White county delegation, one of its members having fallen from the northern portico of the capitol and was killed. The unfortunate delegate was W. C. Hastings, who lived near Sparta. He was sit-ting on the edge of the portico with his feet on the coping. In attempting to rise, his feet slipped, and he fell a distance of twenty-five feet, striking on the stone flag-ging on his head. His skull was crushed, and his death is a matter of but a short while.

William McClure, of McMinnville, fell from the same portico tonight, but alighted on his feet uninjured.

SOUTH CAROLINA POLITICS .. The Democratic Executive Committee Issue

COLUMBIA, S. C., July 17.—(Special.)—Realizing the gravity of the political situation in South Carolina, and recognizing the fact that the continuation of white supremacy is seriously imper-riled by the splft in the democratic party, caused by fillman and the farmers' movement which now appears to be sweeping the state, the executive mittee of the recent and Tillman democratic state convention will this evening issue an address to the people. After giving a history of the farmers' movement, and showing the various inconsistencies of Captain | Tillman in connection therewith, the address shows that at the convention of farme held here in 1887, they passed resolutions declar-ing the farmers' movement alon-political organi-zation, that they were satisfied with the integrity of the state officers, and would not array themselves against any other class or classes. These resolutions had been proposed by Captain Till-man, and were unanimously adopted. The ad-dress shows that the call for the march convention, by which Tillman was nominated, was made by the chairman of the executive committee of the farmers' movement, without the authority, and against the expressed wishes of that body. The candidate has taken the field as the authority, and against the expressed wishes of that body. The candidate has taken the field as the farmers' movement candidate, and is asking their support, when, in reality, his action is entirely contrary to the wishes of that organization as expressed in their convention. The address continues as follows:

Not one farmer in ten believes the charges made in this campaign against the democratic party or its officials. Every fair minded advocate of the farmers' movement sincerely regrets that such charges have been made and rejoices that they have not been sustained. A majority of the democrats who are embraced in this movement have just begun to realize the strength of the organization, and to recognize the fact that in their hands rests the political power of the democratic control. We believe that they indorse neither Tillman nor his sentiments or methods, as such, but that of their own movement. A majority of the farmers in the movement care not so muchfor Tillman as for the success of the movement.

The great majority of other democratic do not object to the movement, but do object to Tillman. We all agree that within democratic lines the farmers of the state have a decided and available majority, and can, with the assistance of their democratic brethren of ether avocations, so control the policy of the party as to secure to all classes their proper share of influence in the administration of the government. The attainment of this result requires the free and cordial co-operation of all elements of the democratic party. To secure such co-operation it is essential that the nominee of the proty for the high office of governor of this proud old commonwealth should not be a man who has besmirched her fair name, slandered her officials, distorted her history, outraged her dignity, betrayed the confidence of his own supporters, and endangered the integrity of the democratic party by sowing the seeds of disagnity.

for the apprehension that in the event of a refusal by the august convention to order a primary election, and of the mominating of B. R. Tilliuan by the September Convention, a large number of his opponents, while acquiescing in such a result on grounds of party fealty and political necessity, cannot be induced to give to him that active support which alone will insure the election of the democratic mominoes in case the republican party puts a ticket in the field. In the cyes of all true democrates the maintenance of white supremacy in the state and the preservation of the blessing of which that supremacy is the only guarantee or paramount consideration superior to the aspirations of any individual; the free and untrammeled expression of the popular will, within the lines of the party organization, will constitute an authoritative declaration which must command ready and willing obedience, but such an expression can only be obtained by adoption of the primary plan. The crisis confronting us is the gravest that has arisen in this state since 1876. The highest patriotism can alone prove equal to its exigencies. It is time for demagogues to be sent to the rear and for unselfish citizens to be brought to the front. It is with this conviction and in this spirit that this address is issued to our democratic brethren. That men who belong to the kame household, or political family, should be alienated from each other by the artifices of ambiftious politicians, is as danger-ous as it is unnatural, and must redound to the tarting injury of the party and the state unless the breach is healed.

THE MINNESOTA FARMERS. Meeting of the State Convention of the Alliance-The Nominations. St. PAUL, July 17 .- The Farmers' Alliance and United of Labor party state convention was late on assembling this morning. The caucusing of last night kept the delegates up late and the hour of 8 o'clock, set for reassembling this morning, was far past when they were called to order. The first ess was the report of the committee on resolutions, which was read by the chairman, General J. H. Baker. It demands that the "war tariff" be radically revised; specially denounced the McKinley bill as "the crowning infamy of protection;" demands government control of railroads, that discrimination may cease, reasonable rates be established, watered stock shall not receive the rewards of honest capital and the pooling of rates to be absolutely prohibited; as producers demands free and open markets for grain and proper facilities for transportation thereto; believes the Minnesota railroad commission should be governed by the lowaschedule of rates; holds that mortgage indebtedness should be deducted from the tax on reality; demands lower interest and severe penalties for usury; favors an increase in the volume of money and demands the free coinage of silver; opposes state and municipal giving away of valuable franchises; favors improvement of the great waterways; asks for the Australian ballot system for the whole state; holds that United States senators and railroad commissioners should be elected by ballot; demands the prohibition of child labor; favors arbitration to settle labor troubles and equal pay for equal work, irrespective of sex; considers the recent supreme court decisions fraught with danger which was read by the chairman, J. H. Baker, It demands road commissioners should be elected by ballot, demands the probabilition that each delegate should now use his best judgment in voting.

A point of order was made that the convention had already practically decided this question favorably, in allowing certain delegates to vote as they pleased, and Chairman Richardson ruled the point well taken. Immediately there was an appeal from the decision of the chair by a number of delegates, and after a moment's consideration Mr. Richardson decided to put the resolution to the convention, and it was put and adopted by a large majority.

The CHANGES SHOWN.

The breaks in the Buchanan ranks had encouraged the friends of the other candidates, and they were bound to have a formal release from instructions.

The seventeenth ballot was then taken, and resulted: Buchanan, 716; Patterson, 386; Baxter, 346; Taylor, 144.

This is the least vote that Buchanan has received, and the jargest given Baxter. Patterson and Taylor have received larger votes than given them on this ballot. The Buchanan men claim that they have lost all their wavering votes.

The NIGHT SESSION.

All the delegates to the state convention were given badges this afternoon, and admission was refused all visitors, but they crowded into the hall anyhow, and at tonight's session 3,000 people packed the hall. The confusion was so great that each ballot occupied over an hour. Only two were taken, and they find the delegates to the state convention was so great that each ballot occupied over an hour. Only two were taken, and they find the did not propose to accept any office.

When it was apparent that a majority had already been cast for him, General Baker moved that the nomination be unanimous, and the convention so ordered.

The chosen candidate spoke of his own dislike for political office, praised the high principles of the alliance, and thanked them for the honor done him. He had for years studied those principles which the convention was now advocating, and now others in offices and stores must be made to understand that the productive industries are not receiving a tithe of what is their right. They should reap dollars where they now reap cents. they now reac cents.

Mr. Donnally was called for and in the course of his speech he warmly commended the character and standing of the new candidate.

Mr. Hall said the nomination will strengthen the ticket and will go far towards leading to the victory that will follow. Without further trouble the ticket was completed as follows; all being chosen by acclamation:

Lieutenant-governor, J. O. Barrett, of Brown's Valley; secretary of state, M. Wesenberg, of the Duluth Skandinay; state auditor, P. H. Rahilly, of Wabasha county; state treasurer, Eric Matteson, of Lacqui Parie; attorney-general, J. M. Burlingame, of Owatonna; clerk of the supreme court, Frank W. Kohler, of Losoure county.

DRAGGED UNDER THE WHEELS. A Frightful Accident With a Fatal Termi-

GREENVILLE, S. C., July 17.—[Special.]—Prince Young, colored, was run over by a wagon load of lumber yesterday afternoon, from the effects of which he died this morning. Prince and his brother, Willis, were unloading the lumber from the wagon, which they had driven on the side track to enable them to throw it over a fence. While they were doing so a lady, in passing, touched the mule in some way, causing him to take fright and run. Price, who was standing between the wheels, caught hold of one of them, and tried to stop the mule, but became extricated in some way, and could not get loose. The mule continued to run, and at each revolution of the wheel he was thrown under it, until the mule was stopped. When released from the wheel it was found that his injuries were internal. After lingering through the night he died this morning. brother, Willis, were unloading the lumber from BURNED TO DEATH.

A Family of Five Persons Perish in the QUEBEC, July 17 .- At 2 o'clock this morning fire broke out in a barroom, owned by Delamare & Oullet, on St. Joseph street. The flames made such rapid progress that soon the whole building was ablaze. The fire brigade quickly answered was ablaze. The fire brigade quickly answered the alarm, which, however, was a little late in being turned in. On arriving at the scene of the conflagration, the firemen worked with energy in preserving the surrounding buildings, not aware that the occupants of the upper part of the burning house were roasting, and it was only after the fames had been extinguished that they came upon a family of five persons who had been burned to death. The family consisted of Pierre Miranda, his wife and three children, who recently returned from the United States, intending to settle in their native city. It is thought others perished in the flames, as the Mirandas had several lodgers from the country.

CHEAP WATERMELONS.

How Chicago Men Formed a Counter

How Chicago Men Formed a Counter Combination.

CHICAGO, July 17.—The statement was published some weeks ago that a trust had been formed on the Georgia watermelon crop. Melons were shipped to accredited agents in all large northern cities, to be sold wholesale by auction. This plan did not suit the ideas of local dealers in this city, and they quietly formed a counter combination. Accordingly, when the first Georgia melons were put up for sale, there was only one bid—a wickedly low one—for the entire lot, and the melons had to go at that. Then the purchaser divided up the shipment with his fellow-conspirators, and they charged full prices to small dealers and the public, thereby making immense profits. The plan was adopted eisewhere, with the inevitable result of smashing the melon trust. Georgia melons are now in a free market, with two weeks to run.

The boat left Diamond Bluff at 7:40 a. m., with eleven passengers; Trenton at 8:30, with twenty-two more, and Red Wing at 10 o'clock with 114 from that point; total 147 passengers. As the boat was about to return from Lake City there were two ladies from the steamer Wanderer and eight men from the steamer Undine, who wished to take passage to Red Wing on the steamer Sea Wing. These, with about ten more, who were residents of Lake City, and who wanted to go to Red Wing came aboard. Thus the list would have been about 175 but some few who came down residents of Lake City, and Red Wing came aboard. The boat left Lake City at 8 o'clock and proceeded up the lake about five miles. When the storm struck us the boat was completely and instantly overturned. Captain Wethern was at the wheel and did all in his power to keep the boat headed into the wind and remained in the pilot house until completely submerged. He then broke through the side and succeededin reaching the shore. The engineer stood at his post until water filled the engineer oom. He then made his escape.

water filled the engine room. He then made his escape.

When the boat was upset there was no water in her hull, and nothing but the force of the wind upset her. The barge was not cut loose until the steamer capsized, and then only to save it from being swamped.

The boat was built at Diamond Bluff; was only three years old, and was built new throughout, machinery and all. The boat's tonnage was 162.35 tons. The crew were all able men and understood their business. No liquors were on board and none of the crew were drinking men. When the boat left Lake City the storm seemed to have passed, and the crew deemed it safe to start. The passengers also wanted to go, and so the boat started out on her return trip. The life preservers were such as the inspector ordered, and were aff in good condition. The boat was to start back at 5 o'clock, but most of the number from Red Wing wished to remain until after dress-parade at 7 o'clock, hence the boat was delayed until 8 o'clock for starting."

AN INCENDIARY'S HAND Must Have Applied the Torch to Both

CHARLOTTE, N. C., July 17.—[Special.]—On last Tuesday night the valuable flouring mills of Captain P. M. Mull, who lives at Mullgrove, Captain P. M. Mull, who lives at Mullgrove, Catawba county, were destroyed by fire. On the same night his barn and stables, a half mile from the mills, were burned, and he had great difficulty in saving his horses and cattle and in preventing his house, which stands near the barn, from being destroyed by the flames. The loss of the mills and barns will amount to nearly $5,000, on which there was no insurance. The fire was undoubtedly of incendiary origin, as there had been no fire about either mill or barn, and as the buildings were too far apart for the fire to have been communicated from one to the other. It is thought that the fire was kindled by some low white and colored characters who, during the absence of Captain Mull and his wife from home, about ten days ago, made a night raid on his henhouse and were discovered by a Miss Huffman, who was staying at the house, and who drove the thieves away with a shotgun.

Buying for December and January was pretty general rains throughout the south, including Texas, but they were generally light showers and mere sprinkles, not enough to afford relief to the drought which is felt more or less in nearly all parts of the cotton region. Mr. Bynum, of Indiana, in the course of some brief remarks, read from the manuscript of the official reporters of the Record the report of the recent colloquy between Messrs. Cannon and Houk, in which they referred to each other as nuisances. This reference was omitted from the Record, and in alluding to the omission, Mr. Bynum quoted from a speech made by Mr. Cannon during the fiftieth congress deprecating the mutilation of the records.

Mr. Cannon said that during the colloquy referred to, in the heat of debate he (Mr. Cannon) and the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. Houk) had said things which they would not have said in a cooler moment. But that colloquy had been personal to themselves, and from time immemorial personal matters of that kind had been, on agreement between the gentlemen, left out of the Record. The gentlemen from Tennessee and himself had met as gentlemen should meet, after their blood had cooled a little. They agreed that it was due to themselves and to the see and himself had met as gentlemen should meet, after their blood had cooled a little. They agreed that it was due to themselves and to the esteem which they entertained for each other to leave out of the Record a purely personal matter. This had been done a thousand times, and so far as he knew heretofore no man had ensettioned the leave out of the Record a purely persons maken. This had been done a thousand times, and so far as he knew heretofore no man had questioned the right on one hand or the propriety on the other. It had remained for the gentleman from Indiana to rise in his place and put in the Record what had been stricken therefrom by an agreement behad been stricken therefrom by an agreement between the two gentlemen concerned. In justification for this the gentleman turned back to the Record of the last congress and read where he (Mr. Cannon) protested against a mutilation of the Record. He recollected the circumstances well. It was a controversy between the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. Bynum) and himself. The gentleman did not come to him and agree to strike out what had been said, but had struck it out without consultation. He (Mr. Cannon) was gratified to believe that there was no representative on either side of the house, save alone the gentlemen from Indiana, who had the heart on one hand, or the malignancy on the other, to seek to obtrude himself where, under the parliamentry usage of the house, he did not belong. side.]

Mr. Bynum said that the gentleman was mistaken in regard to the controversy between them in the last congress. He (Mr. Bynum) had not kept anything out of the Record, but had made one of his statements more specific. So far as the gentleman's denunciation was concerned, the gentleman shad the perfect privilege and right to utter it here. (Republican hisses.)

Mr. Cannon, deprecatingly—I beg the gallant gentleman from Indiana not to hurt me outside of the house. (Laughter.)

Mr. Houk said that both the gentlemen from Illinois and himself had felt that they had been guilty of an impropriety in their remarks. They had believed that, with propriety, the remarks should be eliminated from the Record, and by common consent certain things which had appeared in the newspapers had not appeared in the Record. The gentleman from Indiana had now dug up from some source what had passed between the gentleman from Illinois and himself (Mr. Houk). If this were any consolation to the gentleman, he hoped that the gentlemen would sleep better and eat better and send the Record by his constituents, to show them upon what their Caesar fed. [Laughter.] It had not gentleman, he hoped that the gentlemen would sleep better and eat better and send the Record to his constituents, to show them upon what their Cæsar fed. [Laughter.] It had not been palatable to the gentleman from Illinois or nimself, and they had felt like ridding themselves and the house and the public of it. But it seemed to be a palatable diet to the gentleman from Indiana, and he could feed upon it until he was full to the chim. [Laughter.] Naturalists asserted that the alligator placed himself in the sunshine, opened his jaws and waited for flies and worms to walk in, when he sucked them down. If there was any member who took pleasure in feeding on that sort of diet, God bless his soul, let him take it to his heart's content. [Laughter.]

The McRae amendment was lost—72 to 63.

The bill was reported to the house and passed. The bill, which is the senate bill with the house substitute therefor, forfeits all lands granted to and coterminous with a portion of any such railroad not now completed.

The house adjourned.

A Southeast Alabama City.

MIDLAND CITY, Ala, July 17.—[Special.]—Providence again smiles upon our sunny land, and crops here are abundant. Our farmers are prosperous and out of debt. Five years ago, when the perous and out of debt. Five years ago, when the writer visited this section, forests stood where beautiful towns and villages now stand.

The Alabama Midland railroad runs from Balnbridge, Ga., to Montgomery, 175 miles, through one of the best agricultural regions in the south, where white labor almost entirely makes the crops that are harvested each year. Ozark, Newton, Midland City, Dothan and Gordon, are all living witnesses to the prosperous condition of southeast Alabama.

How the Money Will Go.

CHARLESTON, S. C., July 17.—[Special.]—The will of Otto F. Wieters, who died in Germany on Tuesday, was admitted to probate today. His brother, John Wieters, is sole executive and legate for two-thirds of the estate, which is estimated are from one to one and a half millions. The other brother and sister get the remaining third. This said that the deceased owned blocks of stock in almost every bank in the state. Business will be continued for the present under the old name.

Death of William Perry COLUMBUS, Ga., July 17.—[Special.]—William Perry, an old citizen, died last night. He built the Perry house, now known as the Vernon hotel, and was largely interested in the past in various enterprises in Columbus. He was about seventy-orght years of age. His funeral took place this afternoon at 120 or 120 or

The family of the young men are still ignorant of their death, and will not knowlefore midnight. The coroner will take charge of the bodies tonight, when possibly more light will be developed at the inquest. This will be quite a shock to Colonel E. GRIFFIN, Ga., July 17.—[Special.]—One of the most important real estate deals recorded in Grif-fin for some time took place yesterday. Mr. James in for some time took place yesterday. Mr. James Beaty sold a gentleman from the west 51½ acres, three miles north of the city, for $100 per acre cash. Three distinct mineral springs are located on the plat, one highly impregnated with sulphur. The minerals in the other two are as yet undetermined, but all will be analyzed by a competent chemist. THE IRRIGATION CLAUSE.

Of The Sundry Civil Bill Causes a Dis-WASHINGTON, July 17 .- Mr. Gray moved that the senate proceed to take consideration of the house bill to transfer the revenue marine service from the treasury department to the naval estab-Mr. Allison expressed the hope that the motion would not be pressed, as it was very important that the sundry civil appropriation bill should be disposed of as soon as possible. Mr. Gray withdrew the motion, but said he yould renew it at the first convenient time. The senate resumed consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill, the pending question be-ing on the amendment to add to the appropriation of $300,000 for topographic surveys, a provision that one-half that sum should be expended west of the 101st meridian, and that the act of October the 101st meridian, and that the act of O. 1888, reserving frrigable lands, be repealed.

Mr. Call continued his argument of vesterd against the amendment. He argued in favor of the continuance of irrigation surveys, and sale that all irrigation schemes on a large scale that had been successful had been established by the government.

Mr. Moody argued in favor of the amendment and spoke of its transcendent importance to the people of South Dakota.

Mr. Morgan addressed the senate. He said that the senators who had spoken as to the magnitude and importance of the subject had not underrated it. He spoke of the irrigation provisions contained in the sundry civil appropriation bill of 1888, as ill considered, as the most meager, uncertain and unsatisfactory system for the disposa or 1888, as ill considered, as the most meager, uncertain and unsatisfactory system for the disposal of public lands that anybody could ever have conceived of. That act, he said, had not been the resurt of deliberation in either house, but was the suit of deliberation in either house, but was the result of an understanding in a conference committee on an appropriation bill. He did not see how the secretary of the interior, or the attorney general, or president of the United States, could have put any other construction on that law than had been put upon it, the application of which took 1,200,000 square miles of territory out of the reach of the benignant system of land laws, which it had taken so many years to mature, and to make it equitable in every respect. That was the only construction that could be given to it.

Mr. Reagan repiled to Mr. Morgan's argument and spoke in opposition to the amendment and in favor of continuing the irrigation survey. He described the journeyings of the senate commit see on irrigation last summer in the western states and territories, and told how his observations on that trip had led him to favor a system of irrigation that would make lands that are now arid fruitful and rich.

Without finishing his remarks, Mr. Reagan yielded the floor for a motion to adjourn, no progress having been made with the bill today.

Mr. Allison offered a resolution, which he said he would not ask immediate action on, making it in order at any time to move that debate on any amendment, or all amendments, to the appropriation bills, be limited to five minutes for each senator, the question on such motion to be determined without debate. He remarked that such res-

DECATUR DUMMY LINE TAE COLORED ALLIANCE Of Georgia Holding Its Annual Convention

MACON, Ga., July 17.—[Special.]—The Colored Alliance of Georgia is holding its annual convention in Macon. The convention convened yesterday, at 9 o'clock, in the court

The plans and purports of the alliance as explained to The Constitution by its president, Ed S. Richardson, are good and calculated to benefit the colored race. The president of the alliance is a very conservative negro, and one that has done credit to himself and his race. He says the alliance has persistently refused to meddle with politics and does not propose to be led into the same trap as has the white alliance.

MACON, Ga., July 16th, 1890.—We, the committee on resolutions for publication, beg leave to report as follows:

Be It Resolved, That we, the Colored Farmers' National Alliance and Co-operative Union, of Georgia, upon our declaration of purposes, whose object is the elevation of our people by teaching them the love of their wives, children, homes, education, accumulation of wealth, love to God and their country, the advocacy of true justice, judgment and equality between man and man, obedience to lawful authority, shunning all crime and vice, regard politics as a gigantic evil, and do hereby protest against its being brought into any of our suballiances in the state. But we earnestly and sincerely ask that the jury commissioners throughout this grand old state, of which we are all so proud and truly devoted to, as soon as their conception of the code of Georgia will so serve them, draw colored men on the jury, at least in those cases where our people are to be tried; and be it further Resolved, That we tender our heartfelt thanks to Colonel R. M. Humphrey, our national superintendent, for his faithful services rendered.

BUSINESS TRANSACTED.

The alliance re-elected E. S. Richardson president, and J. W. Carter of Thomasville, C. L. Beal of Newman, H. T. Taylor of Lum-

C. L. Beal of Newnan, H. T. Taylor of Lumber City, state trustees.

The alliance proposes to establish a $50,000 exchange in Macon and $12,000 of the amount has already been raised.

They say each member will be assessed $2, which will give him the right to sell his produce and buy his supplies through the exchange, saving him a good big per cent.

ADDRESSED BY LOCKE.

At the morning convention Colonel R. D. Locke addressed the alliance, but he did not allow himself to touch any political views, simply making them a talk on farming, which will prove of benefit to the alliance. Captain Brown, of the Central City Guano company, also made them a talk, speaking on and of the agreement Mr. Illinan said that it was one of the very best ever made with a railroad company.

It is safe to say that the people of Atlanta and Decatur will not lack appreciation of the efforts of the Suburban Land company to company, also made them a talk, speaking on fertilizers and how to use them. The alliance will probably be in session again tomorrow.

Macon, Ga., July 17.—[Special.]—A switch engine and a through freight train collided this morning about 6:30 o'clock on the Central railmorning about 6:30 o'clock on the Central railroad, near Beasley's crossing. But little damage was done. Engineer Tom Stubberville, in jumping from the switch engine, received several slight injuries. The worst bruise received was from an empty beer keg falling on him. However, he is not seriously hurt. No damage was done to either engine, as the trains were going very slow when they ran together. The accinent was caused from a misunderstanding of orders. The switch engine claims to have had orders to come into the yard, and the through freight was going out to Atlanta on schedule time. Which was in fault has not been learned.
The track was cleared in a short while, and the The track was cleared in a short while, and the freight went on to Atlanta.

well, we went there, and we are winning to not get up and shot at if it wasn't one of the most orderly and best behaved crowds that we ever saw. In fact, when we went up into the court room where the convention were sitting we thought that old Judge Kershaw had come and was holding court, for being near-sighted we asked a young man who, like ourselves, could not get a seat on the floor, who that gentleman was presiding. He smiled very pleasantly as he said that man Sam is our good friend, J. L. Keitt, who, by the by, is one of the ablest young men in the state. There is one thing which struck us very forcibly whilst at the convention, and that is this, that whether Mr. Tillman is right or whether he is wrong, his friends are to be found amongst the very best people of the country. Public opinion is not always right, we are ready to admit, but nevertheless it is mighty, and he who fights it has a hard fight; and if we are permitted to judge other counties by what we saw and heard whilst we were at the convention at Newbury on last Friday, Ben Tillman will be the next governor of South Carolina. Out of the eight of the best men who were chosen to go to Columbia as delegates to nominate some one for governor, we believe all of them are Tillman men. It is true that there are some good men in the county who prefer some other man to Mr. Tillman, but if he is nominated, all will unite and help to elect him, for the good people of South Carolina cannot afford to divide. We have had a baptism of radical rule which we have not forgotten. We were quite amused at an old darkey whon we met a short time ago, who told us, that the radicals were feeling very good just now. We asked him why it was. He said "dat de white folks was so bad busted up dat dey would neber git togedder agin, and dey was guying ter run in deir man fer governor. Dr. G. C. Osgood, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. A PECULIAR STONE.

Gut of Which Vases and Fancy Articles May be Made. ROCKMART, Ga., July 17.—[Special.]—Sitting on the show case in the drug store of Hogue & Co.,

are two small delicately turned vases, which have all the appearance of highly polished, finely grained wood. Pick them up and they are almost as light as Fick them up and they are almost as light as wood, but a closer examination shows that the material is a very beautifully veined stone. These vases were turned at the planing mill upon a lathe made for turning wood.

The stone is found in only two places in the world so far as known, the other deposit being Caen, in France, hence its name Caen stone. It may be cut with a orosscut saw, worked with a wood chisel, smoothed with a plane, turned upon a wood lathe; in fact, any wood-working tool may be used upon it with little injury to the tool and but little more labor than is required to work wood.

Its color when first gotten out is yellow, becoming reddish on exposure to the sun; when burnt it assumes a brick red. It is capable of a high polish, and when polished shows a grain very similar to wood. In a short time it becomes as hard as brick and is about as heavy.

It may be used for tiling, for hearthstones, for banisters, for vans, for interior ornamental work or exterior trimming. There is now a hearthstone in the hotel at this place made off Caen stone, which has been in use for twenty years, which is still smooth and regular, and seems to grow harder and prettier with age.

There are large deposits of this stone on the land of Colonel Seaborn Jones, Mr. S. K. Hogue, Mr. Ellis Davis, and others.

Extensive beds of fine white marble, as white as that which gleams in the quarries of Carrara, and large deposits of the lovellest rose pink marble the writer has ever seen, are found in close proximity to the Caen stone. We invite State Geologist Spencer to step this way shortly. There are immense fortunes in the minerals of this part of Georgia for the right parties. This white marble is equal to the Italian for allornamental purposes, and the pink is far prettier than anything in the state capitol. Its color when first gotten out is yellow, becoming reddish; on exposure to the sun; when bur.

. BOB REDDING ALIVE. The Numerous Burglaries Now Taking Place Prove It.

GRIFFIN, Ga., July 17.—[Special.]—Some time since THE CONSTITUTION published Bob Redding's death notice. It was believed at the time by the police here that Bob Redding was still alive, and recent developments tend to confirm this belief.

Last Saturday night the store of Messrs. Arch Brown & Son, at Locust Grove, Henry county, was broken open and burglarized of considerable dry goods and clothing. Sheriff Glass suspected one Oliver Cotton, a local noted burglar, of complicity in the affair, and took him in. At Cotton' house he found a quantity of the stolen goods, which were identified as those belonging to the Messrs. Brown. After his incarceration, Cotton told the sheriff that he acted with Bob Reddling in the burglary, and that Redding took a quantity of the goods also. Sheriff Glass and posse arrived in the city this afternoon, after having visited the house of Redding's wife, on Mr. Henry William son's place, a few miles south of the city. The of-ficers failed to find Bob, but they found four or five suits of clothes, which were identified by one of the clerks of Mr. Brown. It is not known whether they secured any money or not.

THE SUNDAY CONSTITUTION $2 A YEAR. SENT TO ANY ADDRESS.

ATLANTA, GA., JULY 18, 1890.

If the Worst Comes. The south will be able to hold her ow ander the force bill.

Federal supervisors and carpet baggers may do their worst, but they will fail when they attempt to Africanize this vast region If nothing else will save us, the determination of our people to maintain home rule will place us under a military despotism.

We have had a taste of bayonet rule in the past, and it was better than the rule of fraud. This was not a state, but a military district, in the days of reconstruction. Offi cers and soldiers swarmed everywhere, but in the main they were good fellows, in favor of fair play, and with a hearty contempt for the corrupt methods of republican civilians. They never hurt us when they could help it. When the pestiferous John E. Bryant started out to stump the state we punched his head and battered him soundly all the way from Nickajack to Tybee Light. The soldiers were discreetly blind. They enjoyed the racket. The bayonet rule business was a farce. Our young men organized and made themselves felt in every county in the state. They snapped their fingers at courts martial and prisons, and their enthusiasm spread like a prairie fire. Our campaign against our oppressors was more than a revolution-it was an illumination that brightened the skies everywhere.

In that glorious erathe indomitable spirit of the freemen of Georgia was equal to the emergency. The bulldozing carpet baggers were beaten to a pulp. The robbers of the state were sent to the chain gang or driven out. The people recaptured their own, and held it, and the good-natured military commanders with their soldiers disappeared from the scene.

What we did twenty years ago we can do again. We are not going to allow any monkeying with the ballot box. Our votes shall be counted, and all the swindling federal supervisors that are sent here cannot prevent it. If they are stubborn in their crusade of fraud, they will be met in a way that will bring military rule. The federal army will stand by the southern whites, and protect them until they regain the control of their own affairs.

So much for the worst, if it comes. The southern people will not allow their states to be stolen or Africanized. Before they will submit to such an infamous climax they will cheerfully go back to the desolation of twenty years ago and begin their fight for freedom again.

There Is No Peace.

The peace congress now in session in London is composed of [good men working for a noble cause, but the whole business is up in the air.

Speaking of this body, the St. James Gazette says that it would do well to note the fact that the tariff bill now before congress typifies a most barbarous form of war, in that it assails not armies, but homes.

The Gazette might have said much more. There is no peace. It is war everywhere in some shape. In business, in politics and in society there is war. In a more restricted sense, the outlook for war was never more certain. Russia and England, and France and Germany are getting ready for the inevitable conflict. Several robber nations are preparing to fight over Africa. Salvador and Guatemala are massing hostile armies. Even in this country there is a clamor for a bigger navy in anticipation of trouble over the Behring sea matter.

Men have always been at war, and will be until the end of time. The strong will push the weak to the wall, and when actual violence is not used, men will destroy each other by the methods they adopt in law, politics and business.

An international peace congress has about as much influence as a circle of old women Irinking tea and discussing the affairs of heir neighbors.

Republican States'-Rights Men.

The fact that the republicans of Kansas are developing into a states'-rights party is matter for astonishment. This development is going on under the operations of the recent decision of the supreme court, in regard to original packages, which was made with the aid of democratic justices.

Many communities in Kansas are holding public meetings for the purpose of protesting against the original package saloons that have been established under the protection of this centralizing decision of the supreme court.

At these meetings, such resolutions as the following are adopted, this particular resolution coming from Council Grove: "Since it is an accepted maxim of our government that it is a government of the people, by the people and for the people, we believe that the people are a higher judicatory than even the supreme court, which is only their servant, to declare their will. Therefore, we, the people of Council Greve, assert our right and the right of our state to regulate our own local matters when not interfering with national rights, and we pledge ourselves by voice, vote and action, to sustain the prohibition laws of Kansas." This was a republican prohibition meet ing, but the distinctive republicans have the states'-rights fever to a degree that is remarkable. Lieutenant Governor Felt spoke as follows at a republican county convention: "The supreme court of the United States has overruled the laws of our country which have stood the test for nearly one hundred years, and has put us in the power of the liquor traffic. While respect the mandates of the supreme court of the United States, I consider that I owe my first allegiance to the constitution and laws or my

Now what will the republican organs of the north and west say to this? We suppose they will ignore the remarks of the republican lieutenant-governor of Kansas alto gether; but if a southern democrat had made such a statement as we have quoted there would have been a howling chorus filling the air with cries of "treason" and

The Savannah-Macon Paper on Issues Only the other day THE CONSTITUTION was engaged in a little discussion with Brer Estill's Savannah News concerning the attitude of that paper toward the Farmers' alliance. Its wrigglings were so pitiful-its conception and understanding of the situation so shallow and superficial-that we charitably permitted it to have the last word, realizing the fact that it was useless to carry on a discussion with a newspaper which is not prepared to admit that a farmer is a democrat if he belongs to the alliance, and which fails to perceive that the farmers of Georgia make up the bulk of the democratic party when they go to the polls.

But Brer Estill continues to harp on the alliance string. He has two Savannah papers, and he turns himself loose on THE CONSTITUTION and the alliance in his Savannah paper published in Macon. It says that THE CONSTITUTION is a "muzzled newspaper" because it has not chosen to treat what Brer Estill's Savannah-Macon paper calls "the truck patch" bill as an issue in the state campaign. The Savannah-Macon paper says that this "truck patch" bill is "the one question involved" in this campaign-"the one issue of the day"-and it says that we have not treated it as such.

We observe in these remarks of Brer Estill's Savannah-Macon paper the same stupidity that characterizes the utterances of Brer Estill's real Savannah paper. Whether in Savannah or Macon Brer Estill's writer is utterly unable to cope with facts. If the "truck patch" bill is a county or a state issue, we have not heard of it. Not satisfied with denying that alliancemen are democrats, Brer Estill's papers now indirectly charge that the farmers are fools. This charge is necessarily implied in the intimation that they have no better sense than to believe that the "truck patch" bill is an issue in the Georgia legislature or in the campaign for state officers.

According to Brer Estill's publications, the farmer men not only do not belong to the democratic party if they are alliancemen, but they are now trying to compel the next Georgia legislature to pass what the Savannah-Macon paper calls the "trnck patch"

THE CONSTITUTION is of the opinion that the most important issue in the south at this particular juncture is the unity of the democratic party-a harmony that will enable the south and each state of the south to stand firm in the face of the danger that will confront us when the federal force bill becomes a law. There is no issue equal to this in importance. It is an issue that calls on every farmer and every allianceman to stand with their democratic brethren in opposition to federal tyranny and oppression. It is an easy matter to get up a heated and unnecessary controversy over side issues. One of the results of this sort of thing-of crimination and recrimination between the farmers and other classes of democrats-is to be seen in the great danger that now threatens the democratic party in South Carolina, where there is every sign and promise of a disastrous break in the organization.

In the democratic party as it is at present constituted, there are necessarily differences of opinion. Some of these differences may even be irreconcilable under ordinary circuinstances, and controversy would certainly go far toward making them so; but the salvation of this whole section depends on the harmony and unity of the democratic, or, if you please, the white man's party, and THE Constitution distinctly refuses to be a party to any controversy that tends to emphasize differences and to create a state of affairs such as exists today in South Carolina.

There is in this whole business an issue that is of infinitely more importance than the mere political issues of the day.

A Crank On The Right Line.

Senator Blair is a crank on two subjects prohibition and federal education

But a crank with his sympathies and energics enlisted in the cause of humanity will sometimes get on the right line. Senator Blair's latest effort will receive the hearty endorsement of good people everywhere. He has introduced a bill which provides that no person or corporation shall perform, or authorize to be performed, any secular work, labor or business, to the disturbance of others-works of necessity, mercy and humanity excepted, nor shall any person be engaged in any play, game or amusement, or recitation to the disturbance of others on the first day of the week, commonly known as the Lord's Day, in any place subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of the United States. It is made unlawful for any person or corporation to receive pay for labor or service rendered in violation of this provision. Such a law, with similar legislation on the part of the states, would do much to preserve the Christian Sabbath from the as saults now being made upon it. In this country there are 2,500,000 persons who are compelled to work on Sunday. These workers will gradually become an element that will be a standing menace to religion and morality. We must make a distinction between necessary and unneces sary Sunday work. In the south this has always been the case, with the exception of a few localities. But there is great danger of the complete secularization of the Sabbath in the north and west. Senator Blair's bill should receive the serious consideration of our law makers. THE next democratic platform will read well with a free coinage plank. THE Globe-Democrat says that General Frement never lived up to the fact that he was the first republican nominee for the presidency. No; Frement preferred to remain

MR. BLAINE exploded the McKinley bill in one sentence: "There is not a section or a line in the entire bill that will open a market for another bushel of wheat or as of corn."

"THE country has six sorts of money," says the Globe-Democrat. Yes, and if it had twelve sorts, the republicans would manage to get away with all of them.

WITH a deficit of $144,000,000 in the tre ury, where will the United States get the money to buy Cuba?

THE thermometers at the north do not indicate that there are many icebergs in the Atlantic. The sweltering people of that section should come to the south, where the climate is temperate the year around.

THE people of the country will observe that free silver, so far as the republicans are concerned, is further off than ever.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

A SICK MAN escaped from the hospital in Mem-phis, Tuesday. He stripped himself of every gar-ment, and walked into a house full of ladies. A strong-minded woman locked him in a room, and ent for a policeman, who marched the gentleman off with a quilt wrapped around him.

THE man who imports liquor and sells it in a prohibition county, will save himself trouble by looking at the original package decisions. He cannot lawfully open a box, keg or barrel of liquor. He must sell the original package as it ame, no matter how large it is. He cannot open box and sell the bottles in it.

B. SHEPHERD WHITE, who forged ch embezzied money in Washington, and fled to Ken-tucky, where he was arrested, turns out to be a quadroon dude. He figured in the best society, and had foreign ministers and senators for his chums. Many ladles of the highest standing wrote loving notes to him and gave him thei photographs. Now that the rascal has been ar all this has come to light and many of his fair admirers are greatly mortified.
White denies having negro blood in his veins but the charge appears to be well founded. The case has its moral. It shows that respectable people in our large cities are altogether too care-less about their associates. If a young man dresses well spends money lavishly, and has society manners he can get into almost any circle, and no questions will be asked about his antecedents. If White had not been exposed in time, some young lady would probably have married him, only to learn in the course of time that her husband was

IT WAS DECIDED YESTERDAY

The Report of the Sub-Committee is Adopted -The Legislature to be Asked for State Recognition at Once.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 17, 1890—To. the General Committee: We, the undersigned, appointed as a subcommittee to prepare a statement as an outline for an organization of the Georgia Military institute, respectfully submit suggestions as follows:

That the Moreland Park Military academy, near Atlanta, be organized on a basis of a stock company, to be capitalized at $\infty$—, and to be called the Georgia Military institute.

We suggest that application be made for a charter.

We suggest that application be made for a charter.

That the stockholders choose — trustees, who shall have charge of the administration of affairs pertaining to the institute.

That a suitable memorial be directed to all surviving cadets of the old Georgia Military institute and to all the volunteer military companies now organized in Georgia, inviting their co-peration toward establishing the Georgia Military institute as a distinctive military institute in this state.

That a committee be appointed to endeavor to secure assistance, dispose of stock and to obtain such legislation as may seem desirable and appropriate for the purpose.

C. M. Neel,

This was adopted unanimously. Colonel John Milledge, the chairman, asked for time to appoint the committee provided for in the resolution. The list will probably be made out today.

The charter is to be applied for at once. The charter members will be selected within few days. The object is to push the matter, and to have everything in readiness by the meeting of the legislature. The stock company will have been formed, and the school modeled after the old G. M. I., in actual and success ful operation.

Then the legislature will be asked to extend the slight state recognition that was given the

The Jackson Vidette thus sums up the senatorial situation in that section:

The race for senator is growing warmer every day. Two of the gentlemen now in the race have been members of the general assembly before, either in the senate or house. It is almost evident that, if all three stay in the race, the primary on the 25th will hardly determine the nominee of the party, since the committee has decided that the nominee must have a majority of all votes cast. We anxiously await the result of the contest. One thing is certain—everybody can't be elected to go to the senate, so we will be compelled to elect two of them to stay at home. The only trouble about it is, all three of them want to go to the senate and none of them want to stay at home. By the way, not to change the subject at all, how would it strike you for Spalding county to kick out of the traces in the convention, trot out a man and beat the whole concern, and not only beat them, but make a president of the senate out of him when they get him there, and may be, a short while afterwards, a justice of the supreme court? It is always well enough to keep your eyes open. There are many things to be seen and taken note of. torial situation in that section:

He said we could not have it, that the trustees had agreed not to allow the nse of the academy except for school purposes. We told Mr. Burton what Messrs. In attack-ing the official record of Judge Henderson, I exing the official record of Judge Henderson, I exercised a right belonging to every voter of Georgia, and a fair-minded public will make the distinction between this and "personal abuse." This correspondent also states that although I was endorsed by the convention, "it does not follow that Brooks county will go for Nesbitt," and that my remarks were disapproved by a large part of the audience. I have a letter today from a prominent man in Brooks county, in which he says this report was sent by "one who was quite sore over the result of the meeting on the loth, who was present at the meeting and tried ineffectually to aid a small minority to carry a resolution to endorse Henderson. He says also, "I do not see how the correspondent of The Constitution to endorse Henderson." He says also, "I do not see how the correspondent of The Constitution to endorse Henderson." He says also, "I do not see how the correspondent of The Constitution to endorse Henderson." He says also, will do not see how the correspondent of the convention." Nothing more is needed to contradict a report which was sent with the intention of injuring me, even with my friends. Respectfully.

DANGERS OF THE FORCE BILL. Southern Investors Alarmed Over Its Probable Passage. From the Philadelphia Record.

"I consider it dangerous for the business interests of the country to pass the federal election bill, which is now under consideration in the senate," said Mr. Hamilton Disston, one of Philadelphia's stalwart and most prominent republicans and business men, while discussing that measure recently. Mr. Disston added that he would communicate with the Pennsylvania senators and urge them to vote against the bill. Mr. Disston, like hundreds of other capitalists in Philadelphia and throughout the north, has extensive interests in the south, and the development and success of these enter-prises are threatened if the force bill should be-

There is no doubt in the minds of investors who have given the subject any consideration at all that the present prosperity of the new south will be short lived if the iniquitous force bill should become a law and a horde of federal officials should invade every state for the purpose of controlling congressional elections. Trouble would surely follow; [capital would shrink from touching any enterprise in the south; furnaces would go out of blast, spindles would cease to run, work would be suspended in the iron ore and coal mines, and the railroads would speedily default in the payment of interest charges. This picture is not overdrawn, as southern investors well know if they have stopped to consider the discontent that would ensue in that section by the passage of the Lodge bill.

Philadelphia alone has fully $50,000,000 invested nd diversified industries in Virginia, Alabama, Tennessee, Georgia and Florida, the bulk of it having gone into Virginia, a state teeming with mineral wealth. In Florida alone there are over $3,000,000 of Philadelphia capital, mostly represented by Mr. Disston's enterprises, while another $1,500,000 has gone there from various parts of Pennsylvania. Money has been flowing from Philadelphia and Pennsylvania into Alabama and Tennessee for the development of the iron industries of those states, and now it is proposed to arrest this march of capital by a law that can only precipitate turmoil and discontent throughout the whole south. It is a difficult matter to estimate the amount of northern capital hat has gone into the south during the past ten years, but it is admitted that the figures soar around several hundred millions of dollars. In consequence of this steady flow of wealth, the south is now making the same progress that the west did a dozen years ago. Northern and are astern capital no longer finds its only investments in the western states.

OFFICIAL COUNT OF THE PRIMARIES.

NO CHANGE IN THE RESULT An Interesting Meeting at the Court House Yesterday. THE CONSTITUTION'S FIGURES CORRECT

Proceedings of the Meeting of the Executive Committee.

Clark Howell, Jr.
E. W. Martin
John B. Goodwin
S. M. Taliaferro
James F. O'Neill
Renben Arnold
A. W. Mitchell

The official count of the votes cast at Wednes day's primary election showed no change in the result. THE CONSTITUTION'S figures were correct, the only difference being that the official count gives Mr. Howell 1,545 and Mr. Arnold 495, instead of 1,547 and 493, as they appeared in yesterday's table.

The meeting of the county executive committee at the courthouse, at noon yesterday, attracted quite a number of friends of the different candidates. Mr. Culberson, chairman of the committee, called the meeting to order promptly at noon, but there was a short wait for a quorum.

As soon as the eleventh member of the com mittee reported his presence, Mr. Martin Amorous was asked to act as secretary, and the work of receiving the returns were begun.

The first ward returns was read, and when the figures had been taken down Mr. Albert, who made the report, said: "Mr. Chairman, I think it is fair to some voter of the first ward to let him know that instead of a ballot he dropped a note in the box. I reckon there will be no objection to the note being turned over to him if he calls for it."

The second, third, fourth and fifth ward returns were read, and then the sixth ward was called. THE SIXTH WARD.

Judge Landrum read the official report of the managers. It made the figures as they appeared in The Constitution. Mr. Howell 409, Mr. Martin 242, Mr. Goodwin 229, Mr. O'Neill 305, Mr. Taliaferro 79, Mr. Arnold 131, and Mr. Mitchell 35.
"Now, Mr. Chairman," said Mr. Falvey, as he obtained recognition from the chair. "I have heard some rumors about a mistake of some kind in the Sixth ward. The discovery of that mistake, as I understand it, adds 100 to the vote of Mr. Howell, as it was first announced from the window at the polling place. While we have nothing to do with that announcement I rise to move a recount of the ballots in that ward. And in doing so I want to explain that I do it as one of Mr Howell's warmest friends. We worked hard for him, and if he is entitled to the honor of leading the ticket we want him to have it. I he is not, we want that honor to go where it rightly belongs, and I know these are Mr Howell's sentiments."

"Let us wait," said Mr. Culberson, "until the votes of all the precincts are recorded. Then, it seems to me, your motion can be bet ter entertained."

The country precincts were then heard from, and their vote was tabulated by Mr. Amorou and Mr. Osborn.

"And I knew it," responded Mr. Falvey.

There was a second, and then Mr. Goldsmith entered an objection. "It is just this," he explained. "The recount couldn't effect the result, and I don't see that it is at all necessary."

Mr. Falvey's motion was then put and carried. It provided that the count be made by a committee of three, and the chair appointed as the committee Messrs. Falvey, Thompson and Amorous.

As the committee started out, Mr. Falvey

"I wish you would name the other, Mr. Falvey," suggested Mr. Culberson. "Well, let it be Mr. Goldsmith."

"All right. If there is no objection, these gentlemen are added to the committee."

These gentlemen retired to a corner of the room and began their count. While they were at work Secretary Osborne read the report of the special sub-committee, which had in charge the work of preparing the voting places and other features of the election. It showed that $60 had been collected, and $60.10 had been expended—"a deficit of 10 cents," added Mr.

"Which the chairman bears, and he is glad he gets off so easily," came from the judge's

THE COMMITTEE'S REPORT. "Mr. Chairman," said Mr. Falvey, as the committee came from their corner, "we have counted the votes, and find that there are 407 Howell votes in the sixth ward.'

"What will you do with the report of the committee, gentlemen?"

It was unanimously adopted, and the vote was so recorded. "Now I move that Mr. Howell, Mr. Martin and Mr. Goodwin be declared the nominees of the democracy of Fulton county for the next bouse of representatives," said Mr. Falvey.

MR. GOLDSMITH'S RESOLUTION. "I have a resolution here which I offer as a substitute for that motion," said Mr. Goldsmith, and he read the following:

Whereas, The executive committee of the demo-cratic party of Fulton county ordered an election by primary on the 16th instant for three representatives of said county in the next general assembly of the state of Georgia; and, Whereas, The said election as ordered was held at the various precincts, and was one of the fairest ever held in the country, and clearly voices the wishes of the legally registered democratic voters of the county; and,

Whereas, From the returns it appears that the

"I accept the amendment," said Mr. Fal-

"Before that is adopted, Mr. Chairman," interrupted Mr. Frank Arnold, who had been sitting on one of the front benches, "I have a few words which I would like to speak. I want to say that I am informed that one of the candidates named as nominees of the pri-maries has been guilty of a violation of the rules under which the primaries were held. I want to read that rule."

Mr. Arnold read the rule, which made it obligatory upon the candidates to refrain from the polls or the employment of workers to solicit votes. Mr. Arnold said that he had heard it charged that one of the successful candidates had violated that rule.

"Do I understand," asked Mr. Amorou 'that there is any complaint from any of the Mr. Arnold said it did not come from any

THE FAIREST OF ALL PRIMARIES.

Captain Brotherton thought there was Goldsmith's resolution, and said so.

"Mr. Arnold should be specific in his charges if he has any to make. We are in ession now to hear anything of this kind, and if there is any testimony to be produced making anything like definite charges, we would be glad to hear it. But I want to say right here that in my opinion there never wer held either in Fulton county or any other county, fairer primaries than those of vester day. I am free to say that in my opinion there is absolutely no ground for objection."

Mr. Arnold said something about one or two witnesses being present, but preferring a post-ponement until 12 o'clock on Friday.

This brought Mr. Walker to his feet. "We hear," he said, "some sort of vague talk about somebody having heard somebody else say that he had heard something or other—all of which is decidedly unsatisfactory and indefinite. I agree with Captain Brotherton that there never was a fairer primary anywhere, and I don't believe that there dozen men in the county dissatisfied with it. Unles there is something tangible to get at, it seems to me, we are wasting our time. The only thing before us, as I understand it, is Mr. Goldsmith's resolution, and I call for the question." "Mr. Walker is right," said the chairman "Unless there is further discussion I will call for a vote on Mr. Goldsmith's resolution."

THE RESOLUTION ADOPTED. This was done and the resolution was unaninously adopted. Then Mr. Booth presented the following resolution, which, too, was unanimously adonted . Resolved, That the thanks of the democrat executive committee are due and are hereby tendered to the managers and clerks of the various wards and precincts for their faithful and effi-cient work in the primary just held. Also to the several candidates for their strict adherence to the rules prescribed, by which the fairest election ever held in this county has been successfully carried out.

Resolved further, That our thanks are due Mr. A. P. Stewart, our tax collector, for his kindnes and generosity, in furnishing free of expense, the complete registration lists of the county.

Mr. Harwell read a resolution, and it was, when put by him, unanimously adopted. It reads as follows:

Resolved, That the thanks of this committee are due, and are hereby given, to our worthy chairman for the able and impartial manner in which he has presided over its deliberations, and to our secretary for the satisfactory manner in which he has fulfilled the duties assigned to him. With this the committee adjourned. chairman reminded those present of Saturday's mass meeting for the election of a new executive committee, and the committee took charge of the registration lists for future use.

A Mass Meeting.

Tomorrow a mass meeting of the citizens of Fulton county will be held at 12 o'clock at the court house. At that meeting a new executive committee will be chosen, and other business transacted.

express my indignant protest against the treatment I received at the hands of the Evening Journal in its issue of this evening? I have, I Journal in its issue of this evening Y have, I think, just cause for complaint, as for some reason to me unknown I am made to suffer. My complaint is just this: On yesterday I made for The Constitution cuts of the three successful candidates for the legislature—Mr. Howell, Mr. Martin and Mr. Goodwin. As is the privilege of all artists, I placed my name in a corner of the cuts. This evening the Journal uses my cuts, which This evening the Journal uses my cuts, which they borrowed from THE CONSTITUTION, but in stead of using them as they were made, cuts off my name from each.

Now, Mr. Editor, it is nothing to me whether

THE CONSTITUTION is kind enough to lend its cuts to the Journal or not. Indeed, I suppose I should feel flattered that they are sought after. Neither is it anything to me whether that paper publishe notoriously unfair reports in everything in which anybody connected with The Constitution is concerned. I have no right to complain if the editors of the do, upon every possible occasion, misrep-resent the true state of political affairs in this county, and it is nothing to me if these reports are universally considered the outcroppings of petty jealousy and spite.

I am not at all interested in the order in which my cuts appeared in that paper, but I do object to being deliberately defrauded of the credit of making the cuts. That is pertainly due me. I am a young man, seventeen years old, and am working hard to win a living and a reputation. That reputation is a great part of my stock in trade, and to take that from me, is like taking the goods from a merchant's store. It was univer sally pronounced to be the most successful day of clinics yet witnessed by the association.

Dr. B. H. Teague finished the casting of the zinc die, made inside of an iron casting.

Dr. W. H. Richards exhibited a new and useful instrument for bleaching teeth and treating an abscess quite satisfactorily.

Dr. T. M. Hunter exhibited a practical adjustment for taking impressions on a new modeling compound, and this was a great hit among the dentists.

The Afternoon Session. Promptly at 3 o'clock, the dentists assemble again to transact the business that awaited them for the afternoon session.

The meeting was called to order by President Storey, in the Young Men's Christian Association hall, and the evening was devoted chiefly to the reading of papers as reported by Dr. C. S. Chisholm, chairman of the committee of literature and voluntary pssays.

Dr. Chisholm read a very interesting paper

Dr. Chisholm read a very interesting paper on "Periodical Literature. What It Has Done, and What It is Doing for Dentistry."

The paper was received with loud and appreciative applause, which showed the great favor with which it met.

Dr. W. C. Wardlaw read an able paper on the "Therapeutic Treatment of Pulp Canals," which was also received with loud applause.

Perhaps there was no paper read which called forth such applause as that of Dr. Atkinson, of New York, on the "Best Methods of Practice." This was truly a perfect This was truly a perfec of Practice." This was truly a perfect discourse on a most pertinent subject.

Dr. Chisholm exhibited on the blackboard treatment of a violent case of hemornage following laceration of the mucous membrane of the month. It was interesting in the extreme and was vividly explained by Dr. Chisholm.

A paper from Dr. G. B. Clements, of Mississippi, on pulp canals was read, which was full of interest to the convention.

Dr. Stubblefield, of Vanderbilt university, read a paper complimentary to that of Dr. Atkinson, which was, indeed, a scholarly and striking tribute to the discourse of the learned Dr. Atkinson.

The papers were briefly discussed by Drs. Catching, Crawford, Kell, Evans and Johnson.

The executive committee reported a resolu tion changing the constitution of the association so as to require each member to pay five dol-lars fee annually, and unless they are paid in two years the member should be expelled.

The resolution passed unanimously.

No further business being before the session it adjourned until the banquet at 9 o'clock. A Brilliant Banquet.

The south and southern dentists were the toasts last night.

And they were the themes that were drowned in richest eloquence and sweetest music.

It was a banquet fully in keeping with the occasion, and with the high calling of the men who assembled at its call.

Everybody pronounced it the most splendid affair ever known in the history of the Southern Dental association since its first formation in Atlanta, exactly twenty-one years

Dr. Sid Holland, chairman of the committee of arrangements, was, by unanimous consent, chosen toastmaster of the occasion, and in his accustomed genial manner presided over the festivity that reigned supreme in Concordia festivity that reigned supreme in Concorda hall.

After each dentist had become satiated upon the abundant and dainty viands that were spread before him, as well as upon the sweet strains of music furnished by Wurm's orchestra, Dr. Holland introduced Dr. J. C. Storey, president of the association, who made a stirring speech, most appropriate and full of wisdom. He reviewed the history of the association, and predicted for it abundant success.

"Dentistry of the Past, Present and Fu-ture" was responded to by Dr. J. B. Patrick, of Charleston.
Dr. J. G. Crawford, of Nashville, spoke of the great scope of dentistry, what a field it covered and what a part it played in the pro-fessional world.
"Future Dentistry" was responded to most eloquently by Dr. Atkinson, of New York, who, though the oldest member of the associa-tion is yet the most active.

"Dental Literature of the Present Day" was well toasted by Dr. Taft, of Cincinnati.

Dr. Stubblefield, of Vanderbilt university,

Dr. Stubblefield, of Vanderbilt university, made a splendid response to the toast, "City Dentists," and was applauded to the echo. Perhaps, the most taking of all toasts was "Country Dentists," responded to by Dr. McNally, of Alabama. He said his country was so poor that a Georgia architect had to be engaged to build a court house for his country and the soil had to be fertilized to make good brick. He was loudly applauded.

Dr. Stockton, of New Jersey cantivated: plauded.

Dr. Stockton. of New Jersey, captivated the crowds with his response to the toast, "Northern and Southern Dentists." He said he lacked the eloquence of the immortal Grady, and in Ifhis loss lelt loath to say a word, but he made an eloquent response, and was cheered with great enthusiasm.

The banquet half was descrited at a late hour, everybedy proclaiming it to be the greatest success of its kind ever known to the history of the Southern Dental society.

Upon Mrs. Morris's death, W. C. Dibbel, administrator, filed a bill of interpleader to have the rights of the respective parties settied by the court. FROM OUR NOTEBOOK.

They Are Weary Waiting.—"Do you know," said a witness, who had been in attendance on the city court for several days, "that we get very tired hanging around here? I am a witness in a case, and was stimmoned to be here Monday, and I have been here all the week awaiting the call of the case. It is not only tiresome, but it is a hardship case. It is not only thresome, but it is a hardship on working men, who are dependent on their daily labor for a support. It is just this way in both the city and superior cours and that is why men so often decline to appear in these cases. They know that there will be a long weary waiting for them during which time they are at the mercy of the court. The case is liable to be called at any time, and if delinquent they are fined. And jet it may not be called at all. It is a tiresome thing and ought to be remedied."

He Weighed Ten Pounds.—The arrival of a ten pound boy at the home of Mr. W. W. Mickleberry Wednesday, was an event of decided importance in that household. The mother and baby are both doing well. The latter will doubtless prove an active member of the "Golden Chain" at some future day.

He Will Go Off Next Week .- Among the hard He Will Go Off Next Week.—Among the hardest workers about Fulton county court is the Hon. John Tyler Cooper, clerk of the county commissioners. He will leave for Murphy, N. C., next week, for a summer outing. He will take in Whitepath, Ellijay and other points on the Marietta and North Georgia, on his return, and his friends wish him a pleasant trip.

Shot With a Cartridge.—John Franklin, a ne-gro boy living on Butler street, was seriously wounded in the face vesterday by a ball from a 32 cartridge. Franklin had the cartridge in his hand and dropped it upon the sidewalk. The cap struck a stone, causing an explosion. The ball struck the boy on the forehead, just above the right eye, inflicting an ugiy and dangerous wound. Dr. Wright rendered the necessary surgical at-tention.

Dr. Armstrong's New Lecture.—Dr. J. G. Armstrong is preparing a lecture on "Richard the Third," which promises to be an effort of remarkable interest and brilliant word-painting and declamation. It will be similar in method to the technical structure of the company of the com declamation. It will be similar in method to the lecture on "Julius Carsar," which was so highly complimented by the press and public. Dr. Armstrong has had numerous requests to take "Richard the Third" for his theme, and it goes without saying that he will handle his subject in a masterly manner. As a dramatic lecturer the doctor has no equal in the country, and only his modesty keeps him from becoming the most popular man on the platform. SOCIETY GOSSIP.

A Well Read Senator.

From the Chicago Tribune.
Years ago-thirty-five or more-Timothy O Howe, who was afterwards postmaster general of the United States, was traveling up the Fox river of Wisconain in a scow. In a corner of the boat he stumbled across a short, thick set young boat he stumbed across a short, then set young man, who was reading a big calf bound book. The young man was dressed like a lumberman, in a hickory shirt, and with his corduroy breeches tucked in long, thick-soled boots. Mr. Howe paused in wonderment at the contrast between the book and the dress. "What are you reading there, young man?" he asked. The young man turned up the volume, and the astonished Mr. Howe read "Tacitus." It was many years before the two men met again in Washington, and then Mr. Howe wa high in the government and Thomas Witherel Palmer was a candidate for senator from Michigan But Mr. Howe remembered the lumberman in the risen and rising politician, and he said he didn't wonder. This is the sort of man who has taken the presidency of the Columbian exposition con nuisioners. The lad who could read Tacitus on a Fox river scow is not likely to lose his studious-ness in later years, and Senator Palmer can still read Tacitus and more with pleasure. He is a traveler, a man familiar with nations and their tongues, and he is a diplomat.

THE STOCK MARKET. The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock

street still remains unchanged. Dealings in the regular list in the stock market today presented absolutely no feature of interest beyond a continnance of the rise in Pacific Mail, which has been started by the passage of the shipping bills. The movement was spasmodic, but the improveme made was retained and the next lift will start from a high level. Sugar Refineries are again a great feature of the day, but the movement was wnward in the forenoon, though recovering later in the day. The movement in a measure gave tone to the general list, and while the move-ments were insignificant heaviness marked the transactions of the forenoon, but a firmer mark e was seen later in the day. In default of specula-tion the operators discuss the probable effects of the silver bill. The bulls argue that it will be of great benefit not only to Wall street but to the business of the whole country. They say that the addition to our circulation will encourage new enterprises and lead to greater activity in business circles next fall. The improvement will begin to be felt early in August. They rest their faith on the reduction in sterling exchange, the passage of the silver bill, advancement of rates and the appearance of rain in the corn belt, where there has been a great drought. No improve-ment in speculation may be looked for in New York while the present torrid heat continues. The engagement of $500,000 in gold for export was made the occasion of a raid by the bears in the last few minutes of trading, and granger stocks especially were rattled off. The close was heavy on the decline. Sales of listed stocks 77.000 es, nnlisted 38,000.

Exchange dull but steady at 485@4.89. Money casy at 3@4½. Sub-treasury balances: Coin $162,289,000; currency, $6,905,000. Governments dull and barely steady; 48 1211/4;

Henry Clews & Co.'s Circular. NEW YORK, July 17 — [Special.]—The cotton market under review, after several weeks of exmarket under review, after several weeks of ex-treme dullness, without any change of importance, assumed a bullish attitude on Tuesday. The shorts were the first to scare about the dry weather pre-vailing in the south, especially in Texas, and aided the long interest materially in scoring an advance of 20@30 points, followed by a slight re-action only to be gained whenever a little spirited buying took place. Although the statistical po-sition of cotton has been decidedly strong, little or no interest has been taken in it by the Ameri-can speculators. However, the foreigners, keenly sensitive of the situation, sent over quite a lot of or no interest has been taken in it by the American speculators. However, the foreigners, keenly sensitive of the situation, sent over quite a lot of orders, both for this and the next crop options, which naturally added the upward movement. The advance in Liverpoot, coupled with large sales of spot cotton and the armness of Manchester, as well as some manipulation of July here and reliable reports from Texas that he weather indicated a protracted drouth in that hate, alarmed those who were believers in the short fall, causing them to cover their holdings without caremony. The situation at this writing is uncertain for many reasons, with the chances in favor of higher range of quotations for the near options the proper support is given them, while the whelar months would seem a fair sale on bulges.

HENRY CLEWS & CO. Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Circular. NEW YORK, July 17—[Special.]—The easier tone which prevailed here yesterday met with a doubtful response in Liverpool this morning and prices there were only 1-64 lower, while spinners continue free buyers, taking today 10,000 bales. The posult was a higher opening in New York and a market which has gradually crept higher under the influence of the reiterated complains of dam-age by drought and the strength of the July position, which closed at a premium of 27 points on August. The shorts in August and September, as they saw July crawling up, bethought them-selves, "This is but a picture of what I may be," selves, "This is but a picture of what I may be," and, as they appreciated the force of the parallel, have reluctantly bid farewell to the short side.

The reports we get from the south do not entirely bear out the views expressed by others as to the extent of the damage done by the dry weather. Rain is undoubtedly needed, but its absence thus far has hardly done more than hasten the maturity of the crop, which now promises to be the carliest in several years. Bagging is being ordered for delivery in North Carolina by the 15th of August, and private advices are that considerable cotton will be marketed by that time. It now seems certain that July will be carried to an extreme price, and unless rain falls in Texas tonight a higher market for the distant positions may possibly result.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, July 17-Wheat-A fair volume of business was transacted. Trading was chiefly local, though some outside business, including some little trading on foreign account, was reported. The opening was 1/2 1/4 higher than yesterday's closing, advanced 40 more and then eased off some, fluctuated and closed about 1/2c lower than yesterday, except for December, which closed than yesterday, except for December, which closed %c higher than yesterday. The advance was due to firmness in the European markets, the change in the weather again causing some uneasiness and a stronger feeling.

Corn—There was a larger speculative trade. There were good buying orders on the market on reports of dry weather, little or no rain falling in the west. The market opened ½@½c above the close of yesterday, was firm and sold up ½c, reacted, declining ½@½c, railied and advanced ½c, became easier and closed ½@½c better than yesterday.

became easier and closed Active, but trading went by fits and starts. Crop reports were not at all encouraging. There was quite a demand for July, and prices advanced ic. August and September advanced ½c and May ½c, and the market closed steady at about outside figures for the distant futures, but at ½c decline from the top.

Mess pork—Very little business was transacted. Prices exhibited very little change, and rather favored buyers.

NEVER -: IN -: THE -: HISTORY

Of my house have I had such an immense June business as the one just closed. Over $22,000 worth of furniture retailed in twenty-five consecutive days—during the dullest month of the year. Certainly more than any other two Atlanta firms, and I believe more than all combined, exclusive of carpets and drapery. These sales were made after the sharpest and closest competition, and against the estimates of every notable dealer in the city, covering suites from $25 to $500; gracing the humble cottage on the city's outskirts and the elegant homes of the rich on our fashionable thoroughfares. What does this mean?

To the thoughtless and indifferent reader these facts in cold type mean nothing; but the more thoughtful and intelligent reader will see between the lines the cabalistic

A NIGHT SERVICE.

A night postal service.

ATLANTA'S POST OFFICE WILL BE KEPT OPEN AT NIGHT. ter Lewis Gets Desirable Additions to the Service-The Future Management of the Office.

Postmaster Lewis got it yesterday merning. Postmaster and the postoffice authorities in Washington for further appropriations was fully complied with, and he received notification yesterday to put in such additional clerks and carriers as he had asked for.

General Lewis will at once look to the instituting of a thorough night postal service.

He will put in a night general delivery clerk, a night registry clerk and an additional night mailing clerk.

This will bring a much improved service for Atlanta, allowing the people to get their mail until midnight from the office, and giving the night work in the postoffice a much more siness like air. Postmaster Lewis asked for $4,000 for additional clerk hire. He has been allowed something more than $3,000.

HOW HE WILL MANAGE IT. He said yesterday: "I am undecided as to whether I shall begin the night service at once or wait until after the civil service examination on the 5th day of August.

"When I do begin it, I shall run it until 9 or 10, or perhaps 12 o'clock, just as the circumstances may demand. I shall keep the of-fice open as long as is desired by the people.

"The registry department will not be kept open, but the additional help in this department will afford a quick transportation of registered mail at night.

"One extra collector will be put on the streets at once, giving eleven collections of mail in the business part of the city and four collections just out of it. "I have other improvements in contemplation which I shall certainly get in due season. I am determined to get a thorough and quick system of mail service here." HOW TO GET YOUR MAIL. Postmaster Lewis says all persons whos names are not in the city delivery should send them to the postoffice officials, to be put in their complete mail directory, which they are compiling every day. In this way many delays in the delivery of mail can be avoided. The officials are working to secure a perfect directory of the city with every person's name

To do this they must be assisted by the citizens of Atlanta. THE CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATION. The next civil service examination will occur on August 5th, and it is greatly desired by the board that all persons contemplating entering the examination should make known their application at once. It is very probable that the next examination will be taken by a large number of applicants, and the authorities want to get the examination in perfect readiness before it takes The improvements on the postoffice building are being pushed steadily to completion. Many changes will be made on the interior.

In each instance the burglar secured entrance to the house by cutting a slat from the shutters, and then unfastening them and hosting the windows. The thieves have so far earried off very little, except money or other articles that could be taken without danger of identification.

Two residences on Crew street have suffered at the hands of the burglars, and several on Georgia avenue. The police are in possession of the facts, and the gang will be broken up as soon as it can be done. No heavy losses have been sustained by any of the burglaries.

A PROPRIETARY MEDICINE BOOM. A New Company on the Road to Fortune -The Medicine the Lever That Makes

A great stock company and the reputation it is Starting in January, 1800, in a small way this company has sold over $40,000 worth of medicine, according to the books of the concern. The sales are rapidly increasing, and will doubtless reach are rapidly increasing, and will doubtless reach $100,000 before the year closes.

This prosperity is simply marvelous. Such success is very rare in the history of proprietary medicines. Many large concerns backed by considerable capital and after vigorous advertising, has not made money until years afterwards. But in this instance here we have a young giant of a remedy, which with its wonderful efficacy and marvelous gives according to the property of the statement of the stat marvelous cures, according to thousands of pa-tients it has cured, starts out with such Herculean strides that it will actually declare a dividend within the first year. In fact, it could have de-clared a hand-one dividend within the first six months, had not the management chosen to stend the profits for the purpose of reaching out into the profits for the purpose of reaching out into new territory.!

When it is remembered that the sales of this great remedy have only been pushed within a small territory, it will be clearly seen that the sales in the near future when more territory is reached, and when the people become more fully acquainted with its effectiveness, will reach enormous proportions. The sales are being doubled every two months, and preparations are being made to advertise the remedy all over the United States, and then to extend it into Canada, Australia, South America and Chima, where it is already being sold in a small way. It, indeed, has before it a royal road strewn with wealth to all who hold stock in the company.

The secret of this success deserves your attention. Its beneficial results have been simply phenomenal. When these astonishing facts are taken into consideration, it may be well asked why this wonderful and unheard of success—why this rapid stride which places the remedy almost at one bound in the front ranks and far beyond many of the old advertised proprietary remedies of the day?

These questions may beanswered by saying that the management has been judicious and untiring to advance the interest of the company, the advertising has been well, thoroughly and judiciously done, to a limited extent, by an expert in this line, and above all, the remedy of stelf, has been a lever that pushes and prizes its way before the people, and, consequently, before the commercial world. It makes quick and permanent cures. Where disease is to be curred it does its work at once, and once it is used, it never relaxes, as each new patient becomes an untiring and enthusiastic advocate of its merits.

at once, and once it is used, it never relaxes, as each new patient becomes an untiring and enthusiastic advocate of its merits.

Already its sales are reaching out into remote territory, and its influence is being heralded and widened until it will soon reach the most remote territory, and almost the entire globe will hear of its virtues and soon sound its praises. Before the year closes it is safe to predict that the sales of Dr. King's Royal Germetuer will reach proportions that have never been conaled in the history of proprietary medicines, and that a handsome dividend will be declared on the 1st of January next.

dividend will be declared on the 1st of January next.

The capital stock of the company, which was organized in January, 1890, is $33,000, only $33,500 worth now being held in the treasury subject to sale, the proceeds of which are to be used to swell the surplus fund and to extend the sales. With a business averaging over $200 a day for the first six months, with the sales constantly increasing, and doubling every two months, it is fair to assume that King's Royal Germetuer Company will soon more than edual the company's most sanguine expectations.

We scarcely know which to congratulate the most—the city of Atlanta, upon having such a promising addition to her business, enterprises, or the gentlemen who have made and will continue to make the business the great concern it is.

What does it cure? Send for book of particulars, the contents of which will astonish you. Read it, and you will surely conclude, there is something new under the sun.

In Exchange for Improved City Property. A gentleman owning 240 acres of good hammock land in the county of Sumter, in the state of Florida, between the Withlacoochee river and Lake Panasoffkee, with a landing upon the Withlacoochee river, would exchange the same for improved city property situated in Atlanta or any thrifty near-by town. About 75 acres of the 240 acres are set in the finest varieties of oranges and lemons and about one-third of the 75 acres comes into bearing this year. The section of country situated between the Withlacoochee river and Lake Panasoffkee is admittedly the very finest in the state of Florida for the cultivation of oranges and lemons. Fine help to care for the grove is already in charge of the property, and arrangements can be made to transfer this help to the party who may purchase. The gentleman who owns the property is compelled, by reason of large business engagements which claim his attention elsewhere, to place this valuable property on the market. This presents a first-class opportunity to any persons threatened with pulmonary disease to fully recuperate their health. There are parties now living in the immediate community who are living witnesses of the health-giving properties of this climate for all lung diseases, one a reverend gentleman from near Atlanta. THE NATIONAL WOMAN'S CHRISTIAN TEMPERANCE UNION.

The Ladles of the Atlanta Unions Arranging for the Reception of the Delegates in November.

The National Woman's Christian Temperance Union meets in this city in November.

This is the fifteenth annual session of the association, which has met in all the principal cities of the union, and delegates will be here from all parts of the United States and Canada, with a number from Europe.

The number of delegates alone will range from 450 to 500, and in addition to these, there will be a large number of visitors.

Yesterday afternoon there was a large and enthusiastic meeting of the members of the union in this city at | Trinity church. Mrs. McLendon presided, and Miss Missouri

Stokes, secretary, read some very encouraging letters from leading ladies of the national union in regard to the coming convention.

Trinity church tendered the use of its audiorium for the use of the convention and it was gratefully accepted by the ladies. The executive committee, with Miss Willard, will meet on November 11th in this city, and the five executive officers will be quartered at the Kimball. On the 14th of November the convention will meet at Trinity and remain in session until the 19th, during which time business of vast importance will be transacted.

The delegates to the convention are among the most cultured ladies of the country, and their stay in the city will be productive of incalculable good in the cause of Christ and of temperance.

Mrs. Miller offered a resolution that every member of the two local unions pledge themselves to find homes for at least ten delegates, and the resolution was adopted.

Mrs. Evans offered a resolution that a committee of three be appointed to confer with the "1890 club," and ask their co-operation in entertaining the visitors. This was carried. Mrs. Aughton offered a resolution hat written requests be seut that Georgia lodge, I.O.G.T., and also to the chief templar and secretary of the state lodge, requesting their co-operation in the matter. This was adopted.

A resolution was adopted, as presented by Mrs. Evans, that a committee of two be ap pointed from each union to call on the pasto of the different churches and solicit their aid by asking them to appoint two gentlemen from each of their congregations to assist in securing homes for the delegates during their stay in the city.

Short and interesting talks were made by Mrs. Adams, who suggested that the union find out what churches would be open to the delegates; Mrs. Miller on providing lunches for the delegates, and Mrs. Dr. Saul on the grand work that has been and is being done, and the bright prospects for the future of the

Besides the calls on the pastors and temper ance people, the ladies will call on the citizens generally for contributions to aid in entertaining these distinguished visitors.

This meeting bids fair to be one of the most largely attended, and most fruitful in good works, of any that has ever assembled; and the city of Atlanta will welcome to her borders a large delegation of the most brilliant and cultured ladies of the country during the great November convention. Every tissue of the body, every nerve, bone and muscle is made stronger and more healthy by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Ulceration of the bowels, usually called "itching piles," is a very common affliction, and not causing much pain is usually considered of small importance, and the disease is allowed to develop into a very grave affliction. The symptoms of this trouble are moisture and itching around the anus, pain across the hips (low down), diarrhea, and irregular bowels, pain in lower part of same, indigestion, and a long train of nervous symptoms, differing in nearly every case); and in the female, who are more liable to be affected than the male, many symptoms usually attributed to female diseases. This disease is a very fruitful cause of many diseases refusing to yield to the treatment of your physician, and places you on the list of "incurables." The results of neglecting this affliction are terrible to contemplate, a general impairment of health, frequently so slow as to be scarcely noticeable, derangement of the nervous system, unfitting you for business or enjoyment of pleasure, the development of cancer and stricture of bowels, or loss of power of controlling same when happily death intervenes and relieves the sufferer of histortures. This is a terrible picture, but a true one. You may by neglect make this your own; can you take the risk when a cure is offered you? Treating rectal diseases exclusively for a number of years, I am able to offer you a curo without the usual pain attending the treatment employed by one who has not the experience in treating these diseases. The mode of treatment I employ for their cure is mild and is not unpleasant in anyway, as I use neither knife or caustic applications. I have cured many, and I am willing that they should tell you of my success if you wish it. I can furnish you their names if you prefer it. On my past success I am willing to stand or fall. Can I offer you anything fairer? If you wish to investigate what I have said to the satisfaction of the most skeptical. For further particulars call or write to

President Calhoun submitted the following report, showing the progress of the work:

To the Trustees of the Confederate Soldiers' Home of Georgia. Gentlemen: The following is the status of the Confederate home building at this time: The outside is entirely completed, except some verands work, including the painting; plastering two-thirds done; floor all laid, except main hall; library, memorial hall and dining room, brick and stone work all finished, except a small amount for the heater and sanitary system; interior of north side completed, except doors and windows and inside painting; all the extra celling in the lower story is up and four verandas are ceited and floored; gas pipes have been laid-through the entire building; about one-fifth of the interior finish remains to be done; deors and windows are en route and will be hung on arrival, and blinds have been ordered; the building is about ready for running the stailrways; kitchen floored and finished, except painting inside; slate work completed and the work shave not been commenced, for the reason that I was disappointed in getting estimates, etc., for the same, and I have now placed the matter in the hands of Messrs. Wingate & Mell, who will determine in a few days the best mode, and make a bid for the work. The contractors, Messrs, Austin & Boylston, have done their work well, and expect to complete the house about the 1st of September. Messrs F. M. Hight & Co., who so generously contributed the heater, etc., will soon be ready to place the same in position. The land upon which the home is located has increased very much in value, being probably worth three times what it cost, or more. Respectfully summitted, W. L. Calhoux, President and chairman, building committee. July 17, 1890.

"For many years I was afflicted with scrofulous running sores, which, at last became so bad the doctors advised amputating one of my legs to save my life. I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla and soon saw an improvement. After using about two dozen bottles the sores were healed. I continue to take a few bottles of this medicine each take a few bottles of this medicine each year, for my blood, and am no longer trou-bled with sores. - I have tried other reputed blood-purifiers, but none does so much good as Ayer's Sarsaparilla."—D. A. Robinson, Neal, Kansas.

A wrong rumor regarding our business has gained currency. We wish to print a pat denial to it.

Never have Eiseman Bros, even considered the idea of establishing a branch Tailoring Department at Athens, Ga.

Besides being erroneous, the report is ridiculous, and the persons who inspired and for personal motives continue to encourage its circulation, are guilty of grossly ignoring the ninth commandment. Such strategy has slender claims for success on moral grounds. We want to say, with special stress, that our sole business interest south of Washington, D. C., is centered at 17 and 19 Whitehall street, and we shall vigorously oppose others enriching themselves, to our injury, upon the reputation we've won by methods clean and

The reduced Suits are moving in large squads at double quick. The unusual number of people on the streets yesterday with new clothes was due to this sale. Many a man has been made from $2 to $6 wealthier by reason of our resolve. The same advantages are good for today.

Elegant Suits, early price $9.50, present price $7.90. Elegant Suits, early price $10.00, present price $7.90. Elegant Suits, early price $12.50, present price $9.90. Here's added attractions. About two hundred more new and extra fine Suits go to the reduction counters at once. Every style a gem---fine in fabric, perfect in finish, graceful in form. Each one a trophy; durability without, fineness within and cheapness of price plain. Better catch 'em early. They'll be slipping out fast.

Do you realize that you may save a third of our former popular prices on every purchase of Boys' Suits? It's a fact worth not forgetting. Not a shallow or shriveled assortment that hints of disappointment and creates irritation, but a full, fresh, bright variety

Can you wonder that with such facilities our business is daily growing greater?
